

Violation of Due Process 4th Amendment, 1st Amendment of U.S. Constitution

Andrew Anderson <aander_455@hotmail.com>

Sat 10/31/2020 6:42 PM

To: DRT publichealth <publichealth@dphss.guam.gov>;

The fact that the Governor signed an executive order circumventing the power and duties of the Guam Legislative is bad enough, but trying to strap residents with punitive measures violating our Constitutional Rights to due process to attempt to dictate how American citizens live their lives is illegal.

What is happening to the community is horrible, however, It is quite evident that "lockdowns" have not and will not be effective. Instead the community must continue to practice social distancing especially for the most vulnerable, and where appropriate, the use of masks. The preventive measures cannot be more damaging than the disease, which is what is happening. Although each death is a tragedy, we as a community, must understand that everyone will face it one day. Those who have tested positive or who believe they are infected with asymptomatic conditions must be responsible enough to avoid spreading the virus as if they were a person with any communicable disease and should be held civilly and criminally liable for intentionally harming others.

The Guam Legislature must protest and nullify the overreach of executive power and determine if the statutes should be amended to provide fines and penalties, pass a law and follow the "Law of the Land."

Thank you for this opportunity to respond.

Sincerely
Andrew M. Anderson
Retired GovGuam

Sent from my iPhone