- If your result returns positive before you travel, DO NOT TRAVEL. Self-isolate and seek the advice of a medical provider
- If your result returns positive while in route to Hawai'i immediately inform an airline or airport representative. You will be required to be in self-isolation until cleared by the Hawai'i Department of Health. Until that time you may only leave isolation for the purpose of seeking medical care.
- Even if your results are negative you are considered subject to quarantine until such a time as your status is updated to exempt due to Negative COVID Test on your Safe Travels Application.
- A negative test does not guarantee that you have not been exposed or that there is no COVID-19 virus in your body. You should continue to follow the safe practices to reduce the possible spread of the virus and monitor yourself for symptoms of COVID-19. If you develop a fever, cough, shortness of breath, changes in taste or smell or otherwise feel ill, please contact a medical provider to review your symptoms and possibly arrange further care and/or testing. You should self-isolate at the first signs or symptoms of possible COVID-19 infection.
- For questions related to the Safe Travels Program please visit our website at www.hawaiicovid19.com.
- To avoid quarantine, you may be required to take a follow-on post-arrival test depending on the county in Hawai'i to which you are traveling. Please check the appropriate county website.
- You may also be asked to participate in a strictly voluntary post-arrival testing program to monitor the effectiveness of the Safe Travels pre-arrival test. Please consider participating as this helps to assure we are effectively lowering the risk of COVID-19 to our visitors and the people of Hawai'i.
